Karsten is the proud father of two boys, that both play for BLAST. He is originally from Germany, and his wife from Spain, so one may guess it is in the boys blood to go and want to play soccer. Karsten played competitive Volleyball for many years, as well as coached teams and refereed.

Beyond getting your kids to have fun and exercise, his one objective for them is to learn how to work in a team. This is something that he has taken away from his competitive days and that still helps him on a daily basis. When he is not on the soccer pitch, he can either be found surfing or enjoying time with his family outdoors in some other form of activity.
